

A New Term

by

Phil Rasmussen

Not too long ago I received an email that referred to the left-wing media as “journal-terrorists.” You may have heard the term recently on Fox News but it probably did not register with you.

This has been a rather obscure term until recently when used by a news host to describe two journalists of perverting the news and teaching that perversion in journalism classes.

“Journal-terrorist” refers to journalists who promote fear or terror in their readers or viewers. Instead of reporting a “balanced” view of a story, the journalist uses the opportunity in an attempt to strike fear into the hearts of the reader/viewer. Words and phrases are carefully chosen to incite a population.

These terrorists promote a narrative that is pushed by left-wing extremists, of which the three major narratives are racism, government control, and censorship. Their actions are an attempt to keep the real truth from the people by presenting alternative “truths.”

If we open our eyes and minds, we will notice that instead of presenting events in a balanced manner, they distort events, hide the truth, and present entirely false or fake news.

For decades the media, in general, has taken the liberal side of politics. This has become so pervasive in society that we rarely get the full story of an event and instead of reporting facts, almost every story contains commentary and suppositions.

When the facts and truth come out, there is rarely an apology from the media for their actions, especially when it comes to destroying the lives of others. Look at almost any story dealing with people being killed. Before the facts came out, Kyle Rittenhouse was accused of white supremacy and killing two black men. The media spread these lies without ever checking to see what the facts were. Even Biden had made negative statements before having any facts.

While we are quick to judge, the media is even quicker in their judgment to find guilt instead of presumed innocence before they know the facts.

These terrorist actions by the media and journalists can be changed and you can be part of the catalysis to bring about this change. But you have to take action. Your fate and that of you children, your community, and Americans is in your hands. You have only two options. Will you become a person who will. . .

1. Explain what freedom WAS, or
2. Explain what censorship WAS...

There's a war going on between the two. And if we don't all do our part, we will get censorship and tyranny by default.