

Are You a Sheepdog?

by
Phil Rasmussen

In Dave Grossman's books, On Combat, and On Sheep, Wolves and Sheepdogs, people can be divided into one of three groups:

- Wolves,
- Sheepdogs
- Sheep

The wolves are those people, organizations or governments who want to devour us. They want as much control over our lives that they can have. Their ultimate goal is to enslave society.

Grossman believes that majority of our population are sheep, and that there are a relatively few sheepdogs to protect us from the wolves. As an overall statement, this is true. However there are far more sheepdogs than what we may believe.

The fact is, there exists a hierarchical structure of sheepdogs. On a national level, our president is supposed to be the "chief" sheepdog for the nation. However, Biden has abandoned that role as has everyone in his administration. Chief among those deserters are the Vice President, Secretary of State, Secretary of Defense, Speakers of the House and Senate, and senior military commanders.

So who is there to protect us from the wolves coming over our borders or those creating economic and social strife across our land.

The next level of Sheepdogs should consist of all our state governors. However, the only ones demonstrating their responsibilities as Sheepdogs are the conservative governors. The liberal governors, like their demigod leader, Biden, have abrogated their responsibilities, and at the same time, are carrying out treasonous actions against our country, the states they control, and the American people. These liberal governors are the worst of the worst as many try to hide themselves as wolves in sheep clothing.

But wolves are pack animals. They build their pack by overcoming weaker wolves and taking down the Sheepdogs. They live among our own people, hiding in disguise as sheepdogs. Many people may think of this as betrayal, but it is not. The wolves have never been sheep, they have never cared about the sheep. They only care about themselves and their control over others. These treasonous people have no allegiance to the oaths they take. They can be found at ALL levels of government, and most hide behind a false skin.

The concept of Sheepdogs, however, does not stop at the government or community levels. You can find sheepdogs at all levels of the family unit. The mothers and fathers of families have the Sheepdog responsibilities to protect their children. These responsibilities extend, not just downward to their children and the grandchildren, but also up through all the levels above them.

Even within a family, the eldest is the Sheepdog of his/her siblings, and the next eldest to those following him/her, and so forth to all but the youngest. But even the youngest is a Sheepdog as well to his/her future family and to his community, state, and nation.

In summary, while Grossman believes that most of us are sheep with a few Sheepdogs to protect us from the wolves, we are actually ALL Sheepdogs. Failing to accept the responsibilities of being a Sheepdog protecting all the levels above us, is to also a failure to protect our children from the wolves.