

COVID Deaths

by Phi Rasmussen

COVID was an unfortunate pandemic that was turned from being a health crisis to become a major political pawn that further divided our nation's people.

Now that the pandemic is declared to be "over," researchers are turning to studying its impact and the side-effects of the various vaccines. Unfortunately our media outlets for the most part are not reporting on these studies and we are left with their initial "facts and figures," which are grossly overstated.

Because of government guidelines, many of the deaths during the pandemic were attributed COVID. The problem is that for many of the elderly patients who died, COVID exacerbated existing critical health issues and the cause of death was "misdiagnosed."

According to the CDC, the number of COVID deaths among those who are vaccinated has been rising since 2021. In fall 2021, about 3 in 10 adults who died of COVID were already vaccinated or boosted. By August 2022, about 6 in 10 adults died of COVID were vaccinated or boosted.

	Unvaccinated	Primary Vaccinated	Vaccinated w/booster
Sep 21	77%	22%	1%
Aug 22	4%	22%	36%

Initially the unvaccinated held the highest percentage of deaths, but in 2022 most of the deaths (58%) were those who had been vaccinated.

In 2019 the CDC stated that long-term side effects from COVID vaccines are extremely rare. However various 2022 studies have illuminated the following side effects of the various COVID vaccines and their boosters:

blood clots, brain fog, dizziness, fatigue, headaches, menstrual disturbances, myalgia, arthralgia, myocarditis, pericarditis, thrombosis with thrombocytopenia syndrome (TTS), and Guillain-Barre syndrome

We are just now starting to discover the long-term side effects.

The vaccines are a touchy topic for many people. A review of state and local governments' take on COVID and the vaccines mimics that of the CDC and NIH. Both the CDC and NIH need to stop pushing the vaccines and start studying their long-term effects.

There is one final side-effect of COVID and its vaccines. This side-effect is not a direct health issue but is an economic and social issue. As such it also becomes a political issue which has an overall impact on our National Security and personal security.

Remember Ronald Reagan's most terrifying words:

"I'm from the government and I'm here to help."