

How Safe Are You?

To answer this question we have to consider:

- What circumstances are we talking about, and
- What is our relationship to those circumstances?

We can discuss our safety relative to an impending economic disaster, or our discussion can revolve around increasing crime in our community, or we can talk about the relative safety of a surgery we need done at a local hospital.

In each of the three circumstances above, our response is different depending on our relationship to each Let's quickly look at an impending economic disaster. Recently Baltimore's Francis Scott Key Bridge collapsed when struck by a cargo ship. About 12 million vehicles crossed the bridge yearly. The bridge may have been essential to your workplace or for your travel to work. Either way the safety of the bridge was essential economically and negatively affected your economic wellbeing. However there is another aspect of the collapse that also has a significant economic impact on Baltimore's, the nation's, and foreign countries' supply chains. Since ships cannot enter or exit Baltimore's harbor/port, your economic wellbeing is further impacted.

Regarding rising crime in your community, this circumstance probably hits closer to home, especially if you live in a "sanctuary" area or one with a lot of illegal migrants. There is no doubt that the current administration supports the unfettered entry of illegal migrants entering our nation and thus putting our national security at risk. Not only is our national security at risk but so is our community and personal safety and security because of the administration's failure to uphold their oath and the laws of the United States.

Are You Safe Yet?

We are now a nation where daily, unprovoked, assaults are perpetrated on law enforcement, first responders, military personnel, and innocent women and children. Over the past year illegal migrants have viciously murdered and mutilated American citizens for no reason other than to satisfy their own sick and deranged desires.

While we have heard the so-called dangers of increased firearm ownership by the far left and media, we have heard little about those protecting themselves against the violent attacks. Instead of people helping each other, they are more interested in capturing assaults on video. And yet, these very same people will vehemently complain about rising crime when they experience crime's impact on them.

Although the government and its actions or inactions with regard to crime, it is relatively quiet about your safety and wellbeing when it comes to healthcare. Government agencies are failing to support your wellbeing. For years various agencies have tried to squash the repercussions and consequences of their failed policies and actions.

President Reagan stated, "The nine most terrifying words in the English language are 'I'm from the government, and I'm here to help.'" For almost 40 years since those words were uttered, Americans ignored Reagan's "warning," and are now facing the disasters of government involvement and dictates as Biden attempts to make the phrase a reality.

With massive cover-ups and misdirection, the left, and the media, have been complicit in attempting to "brainwash" Americans into thinking that government is their savior and knows what's best for the people. Despite Swedish and German findings and warnings, Biden mandated mass COVID vaccination once the pharmaceutical industry was exempt from lawsuits arising out of the vaccination program. Once the initial vaccination period ended, reports started emerging about the CDC and NIH cover-up of COVID's side effects, Fauci's connection to China, and the suppression of lower cost drugs to combat COVID infections.

The latest report to emerge concerns the supply and use of our national blood supply. Not only does the SARS-CoV-2 affect a patient's need for transfusion but much of the supply across the nation contains the spike protein create by mRNA based COVID vaccines. The result of which creates an even greater blood supply shortage.

Typically when we talk about healthcare cover-ups we think of the CC and the NIH and affiliated agencies and programs. However, government healthcare cover-ups are not recent and they involve other agencies. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is responsible for our healthcare and wellbeing. Yet the FDA still allows chemicals and other substances that have no reason for being in our food. Many of the European countries and the EU have banned a lot of chemicals used in our food and food production because they have been found to be carcinogenic and/or harmful in other ways to humans, animals and the environment.

Banning dangerous chemicals and drugs is only one aspect of the cover-ups. For decades, the quality of our food has deteriorated. Our farmlands are depleted of micronutrients that are necessary for quality health. Not only have there been reports on the deterioration of our farming soils, but we can also observe this through the increased use of supplements, which leads to another disaster of the FDA.

Since supplements are not controlled by the FDA, we have little knowledge as to their source, contents and/or effectiveness. If you look on list of ingredient for supplements you often see the phrase “Proprietary Blend” under the active ingredients heading. This simply tells you that you have no idea what ingredients or how much of each is in the supplements. In other words, it is another cover up that is allowed by government.

Unknown to most Americans, China supplies the ingredients for many supplements, over the counter drugs, and prescription drugs consumed in the US. These ingredients often contain contaminates that are not healthy. While we may hear about food being recalled because of contamination, we rarely heard about the FDA recalling drugs for reasons other than their side effects.

Do You Feel Safe Yet?

While the realities of life in America today are fraught with uncertainty about our safety and well being, we need to calm our fears and trepidations with steadfast belief in our Lord and Savior.

“Even though I walk through the darkest valley, I will fear no evil, for you are with me; your rod and your staff, they comfort me.”

Psalm 23:4
